

THE FIRST IN OUR FALL FILM SERIES....

“SEEDS OF TIME”

Friday, Sept. 18, at 7 pm

Begin the evening with a local and organic foods dinner at the Westwind Farm House, followed by the film and discussion. For our first event, we chose Seeds of Time. Lee first heard about it on NPR, and we thought it was so important, we bought the rights to show it once! It is the story of dwindling biodiversity in agricultural seeds, and a seed bank in Norway set up to save it all. This film has a lot of great information about the risks of genetically modified organisms, but it has much more to share in perspective on food's influence on human cultures. A very worthwhile and thought provoking film.

Cost: $15 ea, event lasts about 3 hours
